THIS magazine is published entirely by subscription—ten dollars for five years; thirty-five dollars for life; and one hundred dollars in perpetuity. Although the subscription in perpetuity is a most unusual one, many prominent people have taken it, thus showing their appreciation of the enterprise and their desire to support a magazine, which, in its appeal to culture and refinement and in its general make-up, is believed to be unique.

It is published by The Authors' Bureau, Babylon, New York—G. M. W. Kobbé, President; Gustav Kobbé, Secretary and Treasurer.
